Major Non Medical Forms Updates

We would like to take a moment to draw your attention to some recent updates that have been made to eProtocol.

The Non Medical Forms portion of eProtocol has undergone a major overhaul. Nearly every page has had wording changes, and many have also had major changes to questions and formatting. Below are a few of the major changes:

Participant Population (All Non Medical Forms)

The options for “Decisionally Challenged” and “Mentally Disabled” have been consolidated into “Impaired Decision Making”. “Wards” has been added as a new option.

Study Location (All Non Medical Forms)

Previously, there were 4 specific options, and an "Others Category”. This page has now been shortened to 2 options: "Stanford" and "Other". If you choose "Other" you'll be prompted to enter more information about your location.

General checklist, Resources, and Obligations (All Non Medical Forms)

One or more questions have been removed from each of these pages in order to shorten the form and make it more concise.

Privacy and Confidentiality

In the protocol information, section seven, “Privacy and Confidentiality”, question “f” has been removed, and there have been definitions added for “Privacy” and “Confidentiality”.

Regular Non Medical Forms Only

In the protocol information, section 5, “Risks”, you'll find that question “D” now says “Reserved for future use” eProtocol is not currently using this question, but we may be using it again in the future, so we have not removed it completely.

The protocol information, section 9 and 10, “consent information” and “assent information” pages have been updated with questions regarding “Consent /Assent Information”. These questions were moved to the main page of the section, rather than in the pop-up box selections.

Expedited Non Medical Forms Only

On the Risks page you'll see that question “a” has been dramatically shortened, and questions “c” and “d” have been removed. You'll notice that question “c” has been changed to “Reserved for Future Use”.

The consent information page has been updated with 3 questions regarding “Consent Information”. These questions were moved to the main page of the section, rather than in the pop-up box selections.

Exempt Non Medical Forms Only

Page 9 has been re-titled the “Participant Information Page”, and now includes 1 question about information that will be given to the participant.

Page 10 is currently reserved for future use, and you do not need to make any changes or updates on this page.

We hope that you enjoy the new streamlined Non Medical forms in eProtocol. We anticipate them going live 1/13/12!
